

ESA News Western Section of The Wildlife Society 2003 Annual Conference

Ecological Society of America: grants, jobs, news
Monday, November 25, 2002 9:23 AM

The Western Section of The Wildlife Society
2003 Annual Conference
February 27-March 1, 2003
Irvine, California

Featuring Jack Ward Thomas and John Wiens

In the plenary session, preeminent wildlife professionals from several different settings will describe their own career opportunities and successes, as well as their challenges; limitations; and, possibly, failures. In so doing, they will also provide guidance on the proper boundaries of professional conduct in their particular field. The goal of the plenary session is to bring together biologists working within the full spectrum of wildlife biology to identify critical recurring issues of professional conduct and ethics and foster among them greater understanding and respect.

SPECIAL WORKSHOPS

Reviewing the Boundaries of Professional Conduct
Scott Osborn, California Department of Fish and Game, Eureka, CA
(scotto@northcoast.com) and Lowell Diller, Simpson Resource Company,
Korbel,
CA (ldiller@simpson.com)

The Wildlife Society Certification Workshop
Cynthia S. Graves, California Department of Fish and Game, Sacramento,
CA
(CGraves@dfg.ca.gov)

Ecology and Management of Invasive Species
Jim Woollett, US Department of Energy, Livermore, CA
(woollett1@llnl.gov)

Concurrent sessions will follow the Plenary Session and Workshops.

More details and an online registration form are available on the "Meetings/Workshops" page of the Western Section TWS web site at <http://www.tws-west.org>.